

THE HEIGHT OF STYLE: KNICKS CENTER TYSON CHANDLER SUITS UP WITH ANDREA CAMPAGNA

If you've been paying attention to either basketball or men's fashion recently, you know that the men of the NBA are raising the bar when it comes to off-court style. Case in point: Knicks Center Tyson Chandler, whose style is always on-point—and who was even spotted by Barneys Fashion Director Tomoko Ogura at the Alexander Wang show in February.

Now, it's a well-known fact that a tailored-just-for-you suit looks better than one you buy off the rack. But when you're 7-foot-1, that maxim rings especially true. That's why Chandler recently got fitted for a Made to Measure suit with designer Andrea Campagna.

Made to Measure is an exclusive Barneys New York service that bridges the gap between custom suiting and ready-to-wear, offering the ability to customize an existing model down to the button, while also ensuring the perfect fit. In addition to Andrea Campagna, Barneys Made to Measure designers include Isaia Brioni, Ermendegildo Zegna, Hickey Freeman, Battistoni, Kiton, Canali, Richard James, Armani Collezioni, Ralph Lauren Black Label, Sartorio, Uman and, of course, our own private Barneys New York label.
